

MSU-CIC SYMPOSIUM ON RACE AND
ETHNICITY IN THE UNITED STATES
MAKING THE PERIPHERY CENTRAL

Monday, June 20th
10am-4:30pm
Ballroom
MSU Union

Bringing together scholars in African American, Asian American, Jewish American, Latino/a, and American Indian studies from MSU and other Big Ten universities, this symposium will explore how racialized communities are central to the U.S. experience and how these different communities' experiences are interlinked.

10-10:15am Welcome

10:15-11:15am Panel: Intersections of racial identity
Trevon Logan (Ohio State University)
Nitasha Sharma (Northwestern University)
Miriam Thaggert (University of Iowa)

11:15-11:30am Break

11:30-12:30 Panel: Languages of racial identity
Kirsten Fermaglich (Michigan State University)
Barbra Meek (University of Michigan)
Rocio Quispe-Agnoli (Michigan State University)

12:30-2:00pm Lunch break

2:00-3:00pm Panel: From historical margins to the mainstream
Lisa Cook (Michigan State University)
Tony Michels (University of Wisconsin)
Mindy Morgan (Michigan State University)
Anna Pegler-Gordon (Michigan State University)

3:00-3:15pm Break

3:15-4:15pm Panel: Families and children across race and nation
Andrea Louie (Michigan State University)
Leanne Silvey (Michigan State University)
Lynet Uttal (University of Wisconsin)

4:15-4:30pm Concluding comments

SPONSORED BY: AMERICAN INDIAN STUDIES, CIC-AMERICAN INDIAN STUDIES, CIC-ASIAN AMERICAN STUDIES, COLLEGE OF SOCIAL SCIENCE, DEPARTMENT OF ANTHROPOLOGY, DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY, JEWISH STUDIES PROGRAM, OFFICE OF THE PROVOST, AND OFFICE FOR INCLUSION AND INTERCULTURAL INITIATIVES